Glamorous Sydney Town Hall

The Property Industry Foundation treated guests to an evening of 1920's elegance and glamour at the Foundation's 2007 Annual Charity Ball – Vaudeville, held recently on Friday, 12th October.

Guests place bids on one of the many fantastic Silent Auction items.

The white tie gala evening attracted over 500 guests from across the property industry helping to raise over $150,000 for the benefit of Open Family Australia.

Guests were transported back to the roaring 20's with fine dining and décor at the opulent Sydney Town Hall.

The Master of Ceremonies Amanda Keller and Brendan Jones kept the crowd guessing with an intriguing wine game, with the winner correctly guessing 2005 Knappstein Three Gewurtztraminer, Riesling, and Pinot Gris, by winemaker Paul T. Smith.

Guests were entertained throughout the evening by a variety of performances including the Charlie Chaplin comedy troupe, Flapper dancers, cabaret aerial artist and an explosive performance by The Velvet Set that had guests swing dancing into the early hours!

Vaudeville dancers kept the crowd entertained throughout the evening!

MC's Amanda Keller, Brendan Jones with Foundation Chairman, Mr Brendan Crotty and Mrs Annette Crotty

Open Family Australia representative and 2005 Young Australian of the Year Khoa Do discussed the important role of Open Family Australia's Youth Outreach Program with Jason McGoldrick, an Open Family success story. Proceeds from the night have contributed to the cost of a mobile outreach centre and outreach worker.

Special guest auctioneer David Scholes had guests at the edge of their seat during the exciting live auction - Congratulations and special thanks to all our winners! Special mention to John Winter of Ashe Morgan Winthrop for securing The Australian Financial Review prize package with his winning bid of $23,500!

The Property Industry Foundation would like to thank Beverage Sponsor, Lion Nathan for supplying the fine wine and beer selection on the night. Media Sponsor, The Australian Financial Review and Principal Sponsor, Investec Bank (Australia) for their continued support of the 2007 Property Industry Foundation Annual Charity Ball, helping to make this year another outstanding success!

Guests get into the spirit of Vaudeville with some amazing costumes from the 1920's era.
